Pixtures

Pixtures is an all-new public photography sharing website designed for amateur and experienced photographers to enjoy the work of themselves and others.

Pixtures is an all-new website designed for sharing photos from new and experienced photographers. All photos posted on the website are screened in record time using AI technology, with options for human backup whenever needed for a second review. Unlike other photo sharing websites, Pixtures is built for photographers who love the real things in life. New users will go through a detailed verification process, ensuring they are real humans and not robots. Photographers can ask for advice from others and create a detailed photographer portfolio for themselves.

That's not all, however. General user accounts can also be created by anyone with proper verification to view all photography accounts and contact those they might be interested in hiring, creating a beneficial relationship for both photographers and the public. Pixtures is guaranteed to be free of AI-created images or anything fake; Pixtures prides itself on real photos by real people.
